Care at the End of Life – Pastoral Message “We want to say very clearly that there is no such thing as a life without value. We hope to be a voice for those who, in a time of vulnerability, feel that they have no voice. We ask people to consider the manner in which assisted suicide and euthanasia undermines the whole ethos of healthcare. Doctors and nurses are called to be advocates for life and should never be required to assist in any way in the deliberate ending of life. We invite you to join us in prayer for those who, at this time, are coming to terms with a diagnosis of terminal illness, that they may have the blessing of a community of compassion and care”.

Message from Bishop Kevin - Covid-19 I am very conscious of the huge disappointment that we all feel as a result of the renewed restrictions throughout our country, especially as such a very fine job has been done over the past three months in preparing our Churches for the safe and dignified celebration of the liturgy. Thanks to the excellent work done in all our parishes, no cases of infection have been notified which originated in church settings. Unfortunately, given the wider spread of viral infection, there is a concern that the virus may spread wherever there is a gathering of people. It is important that we retain a strong sense of the presence of God with us and to be united as a community in prayer. Please continue to follow all the public health guidelines and stay safe.
